LEARNING. ENGAGING. KNOWING.

Acumen Practice Notes acumen.architecture.com.au is an online resource of architectural practice material published by the Australian Institute of Architects. Acumen provides an extensive database of approximately 700 advisory notes on architectural practice and built-environment sustainability in Australia.

As a highly valued industry resource for students through to experienced practitioners, consider Acumen for your library collection as an educational and teaching resource.

Primary categories include Practice, Project, Resource and Environment. Topics include Ethics, Marketing and communications, Mental health in the profession, Client and architect relationship, Core architectural services, Designing for bushfire, Environmental rating tools, Passivhaus and Energy saving design and technologies.

The Environment section, previously Environment Design Guide (EDG), has promoted sustainable practice in the profession for over 25 years and comprises over 175 peer-reviewed design notes.

Acumen is continuously updated with new and revised notes and includes downloadable resources such as the ABIC reference contracts, the Institute's Client Architect Agreement, Guide letters and Client information notes.

Acumen is available via both IP authentication and unique login, enabling both on campus and remote access.
